Jim,

Here is my talk, please note that before I started my talk, I stated that this is EPA HQ's proposed approach, the actual draft Directive will be going out for formal Regional review (it has been reviewed informally) in a couple of weeks, and changes may be made. And RPMs can vary from any guidance as long as they have a "good" site-specific reason why another approach is better.

Steve,

We've met before. I manage Oregon's effort in the Portland Harbor project. I'm sorry I wasn't able to attend the Battelle Sediment Conference last week...., limited state resources. Some of our staff did attend the conference & said your presentation was great. I'm very interested in obtaining your presentation material (or anything else) regarding "Developing Sediment Cleanup Levels and Other Measures to Evaluate Remedial Alternatives at Superfund Sites". Thanks, in advance.
